Bringing verve and panache to Brisbane's interiors, Ian Wrightson and Steven Stewart, principals of Wrightson Stewart, share a passion for the quirks of mid-century modern. Rather than nominate a selection of iconic pieces, they have chosen to create a themed outdoor room where the disparate elements converge as a single aesthetic. Importantly, while each piece resonates with those around it, it is also of sufficient rigour to stand alone.

Barstool
Bend

Light, robust, bright, charming, colourful and comfortable – simply one of the best barstools of its kind. Image courtesy Bend Goods.

Mailbox
modbox
USA

It is the details that complete a project and few declare an aesthetic more concisely than a mailbox. We love this modern and sleek edition with the red 'you've got mail' side flag! Image courtesy modboxUSA.

IN2u
Vessel Architectural Pottery

Nothing is more glamorous or simple than a statement planting, so why go Tuscan courtyard when you could go patio modern? We love these big bold sculptural forms. Image courtesy Vessel Architectural Pottery.

Moon Lounger
MoonLounger
Outdoor

Gerd Couckhuys's MoonLounger has a shape we love. The curving back leg support, low line and proportions make this a beautiful addition for fabulous outdoor lounging in style. Image courtesy Wildspirit and Own World (Australia).

Astrofire outdoor fireplace
Modfire

In keeping with our outdoor room theme, the Astrofire outdoor fireplace reminds us of Sinatra lounging around in Palm Springs. Did somebody say cocktail? Image courtesy Modfire.
